

Freshman Welcome Dance To Feature Two Bands

A crowd of almost five hundred is expected to find its way into the Gymnasium of the Andrew White Student Center tomorrow night for the Freshman Welcome Dance, which promises to be a great success.

This dance is staged primarily for members of the incoming class, the Class of 1966, but a great number of upperclassmen will be on hand. In addition, members of the Faculty and the Administration will be in attendance. The dance is to be held from 9:00 p. m. to 1:00 a. m.

White and Gold

Music for the occasion will be provided by two bands, the Merle Timmons Orchestra and the Tempests. This is a unique feature for this event, and has been very well received by the Student Body. According to Denny Keating, Chairman of the Decorations Committee, the Gym will be attractively decorated in white and gold colors.

Tickets and Reservations

Tickets can be obtained for $3.25 per couple from John Mitcherling or at the door. Table reservations are being handled by John Herrman, a sophomore.

Dramatic Society Sets Oct. 19, 20 For First Play

On October 19 and 20, the Masque and Rapier Society of Loyola College will present their first play of the season, "The Girls in 509" by Herman Teichmann. This is a play about two old women who have lived in the same hotel room for twenty-six years; Republican to the core, they fear the Democratic onslaught. The play concerns the discovery of their plight by a young reporter played by Pete Genovese.

Lead Roles

The female lead will be played by Miss Carole A. Goode, a familiar figure upon the Evergreen Stage. Miss Goode is presently a graduate assistant at the University of Maryland.

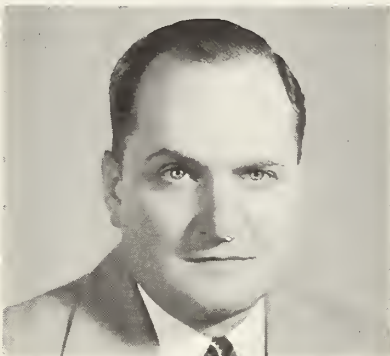

The male lead will be played by Jim "Stogie" Clarke, a senior English major. Stogie is well known to Loyola audiences for his appearances in Loyola Night Productions.

Supporting Roles

Female supporting roles will be played by Miss Joyce Newbert and Miss Martha Monuis both of Mt. St. Agnes College, and both veterans of many Loyola productions. Male supporting roles will be played by Pete Genovese, Carroll Schempp, Ron Yakaitis, Paul Montgomery, Bill Jenkins, and Ed Slawski.

Future Productions

During the rest of the season the Dramatic Society will present three one-act plays on different occasions. The best of these will compete in the annual Jesuit One-Act Play Contest. The Society will also present another full-length play to wind up the year.

Upperclassmen Plan Class Parties For Oct. 31 And Nov. 3

It has long been the custom for each class to sponsor off-campus class parties during the school year. This year two such gala events have already been announced. Mike Rohm, senior class president, and Jim Kane, the junior class president, have released information about their respective parties.

Senior Party

Henry Becker, school social chairman, has announced that the first senior class party, The "Tap" Dance, will be held on October 31, from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. in R. C. L. A. Hall.

The music for the occasion will be provided by the Chaun-Tels, a seven piece band which promises to become one of Baltimore's best. The price of tickets is $2.50, and they can be obtained from any class officer in Psychology class.

Quartet To Play

Gerry Dotterweich, party chairman, reports that the junior class party will be held at R. C. L. A. Hall on November 3, from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. The Tommy Thompson Quartet, an outstanding five piece orchestra, will supply the music. Tickets will be $2.75 in advance and $3.00 at the door.

Since this is the first social endeavor of the senior and junior classes, the respective classes are urged to give their full cooperation so that the parties will be both a financial and social success.

EDITORIAL As You Like It

Perhaps the most difficult task with which any editor is forced to cope is that of regulating his publication material in order to adapt it to the taste of his readers. For this reason, the successful editor is the one who maintains contact with his readers at all costs and, keeping his finger on the public pulse, does his best to adjust his copy to meet the public demand.

As you have probably read in our masthead, The Greyhound is "... a publication by and for the students." Therefore, it is up to the editor of this publication to print articles which he feels will be in the interest of the student. This is not always an easy task.

To facilitate the selection of appropriate materials for publication in future issues, The Greyhound intends, in the near future, to promote a poll of its subscribers. This poll, which will be conducted by the Management Club, will attempt to discover the features which you currently enjoy in the newspaper and will inquire as to those which you would enjoy seeing at some future date.

Because of the importance of this matter, we would hope that the poll will be well received by the reading public and will be given careful attention by them. In this way, and in this way only, can we be assured that we are properly fulfilling our function as the voice of the student body of Loyola College.

Hail to the Chief Marty Snyder

If there were such a thing as reincarnation, then Marty Snyder would probably have been a St. Bernard. He's big, likeable, and very easy to get along with.

Marty came to Loyola in 1959 after graduating from Mt. St. Joseph High School. During his career at Loyola, Marty has distinguished himself both in the classroom and in student activities. The efforts of Marty finally culminated with his election as President of the Student Body.

Marty has the distinction of being the only Classics major in Senior year, and at graduation, he will be awarded an A.B. with a major in Latin. After graduation, Marty will train his sights on graduate school and a Ph.D. in the field of Latin. In the near future, there might be a faculty mail box with Dr. Snyder on it.

The Lively One

As President of the Student Body, Marty might be classed as a "New Frontiersman." Among his aims is a plan to inject some spirit into a somewhat tired Greyhound.

Reapportionment of the student council is high on the list of things Marty would like to accomplish during his term of office. However, this still requires a two-thirds council vote, a majority of students votes, and Father Beatty's signature.

An information programme to inform students of the activities of alumni in graduate schools and of the academic standing of the College in relation to other colleges is being prepared under the watchful eyes of Marty, the Council, and Alpha Sigma Nu. There is also the possibility of a student committee on discipline; however, much of the details have got to be worked out. An active President-Marty Snyder!!

THE SKEPTIC TANK

By "Stogie" Clarke

Sliding down the slimy, slippery sides of the tank this week, we find ourselves skeptical over dental health. It will never be achieved except by the stoic few. Case in point: my trip to the dentist.

It all started by my refusing to admit that the pain and swelling in my face was serious. When I could not open my eyes any more, I thought it was time for a routine check-up. The inability to stop screaming was a contributing factor.

Ah! the plush office looked innocuous! There were children all about, Golden Books on the table, cartoon characters on the wall. The gorgeous nurse confirmed the appointment. At least, I could try to impress her with my bravery.

It was worse than being drafted. They say they'll call you any minute, but that tells you a lot. As the poem says: "You never really know, when you're about to go."

Pow

You're left alone just long enough to feel as though they won't call you. Then, pow! Next, you find yourself in the chair laughing off your troubles to the dentist in hopes he won't really bother with you.

Ben Casey

His nurse is stout and 55. Courage comes from the Ben Casey Theme over the intercom. The dentist looks more and more worried the more you laugh. You find that you have been booked for a major operation.

They give you the numb jazz, then let you alone again to stare at the instruments. Then, they fill your mouth with pipes and tubes --a real hose job. The nurse says it's time for lunch. She isn't joking; they really leave! On TV, they just say to use Crest. If I had false teeth, my gums would have cavities.

SKEPTICAL STOGIE: Caught at home in his "sunken" living-room is "stogie" Clarke, our new skeptic-in-chief. Say, what ever happened to the creature from the Black Lagoon.

COMMENT

Few current events have provoked as much comment as the Communist takeover in Cuba. It has occasioned a flood of protest and indignation almost unparalleled in our nation's history. This is probably the most significant difficulty with Cuba since the Spanish American War.

A considerable segment of the population, both civilian and military, feel that Cuba should be treated as another Carthage. The guiding principle among this group is the Monroe Doctrine. Before the United States becomes too embroiled with this particular opinion, certain misconceptions about the Doctrine and our dealings with Cuba ought to be clarified.

When Monroe made his declaration in 1823, it contained three main provisions. First the United States would not oppose those European colonies which already existed. Second, it would not tolerate any new colonization in this hemisphere. Last, this country would remain out of European conflicts.

Certainly the United States' participation in the two world wars has been counter to the last principle of this doctrine. Above and beyond this, Cuba is a sovereign nation. If it chooses to lease to Russia the land on which to construct a fishing fleet, it has the perfect right. Indeed, it could even grant the power to construct a naval base.

With these elements considered, it is not surprising that the other South American nations view unilateral action on the part of the U. S. with some suspicion. That they consider Cuba's actions in the sphere of a sovereign nation may explain also why they are opposed to multi-lateral moves.

Perhaps the wisest attitude is to be prepared and then watch and wait for Mr. K. to overplay his hand.

OFF THE RECORD

So You Want Hi-Fi

A series of articles entitled "So You Want Hi-Fi" will be written to give the reader helpful suggestions for purchasing a machine which should reproduce sound perfectly. The articles will cover a large area of high fidelity equipment, including such items as tone arms and speakers.

Components vs. Furniture

Too often, naive buyers of phonograph equipment purchase cheap table models. These machines may be labeled high fidelity. They are not. High fidelity is used to mean the electronic reproduction of ideal sound. This inexpensive table model may look attractive as a piece of furniture, but it cannot perform the functions of good high fidelity equipment.

Another piece of furniture is the floor model combination set which is so often advertised as a "gorgeous piece of furniture." Few buyers realize that what they are really paying for is handsomely built and finished wood cabinets with inferior equipment inside.

Our suggestion is buy each component part separately. In this manner, many faults can be avoided. Repairs may be more costly with a combination set as all pieces are so closely related that when one piece breaks the others give a sympathetic reaction.

Don't be misled by advertisements about the design of the model. You are not, in essence, buying a piece of furniture, but a machine to reproduce sound perfectly. There are many other considerations.

Loyola Harriers To Rely On Team Balance

During the past few weeks it has become evident that the main characteristics of this year's cross-country team are balance and a tendency toward team running. In the past two or three seasons the harriers have always seemed to depend on the efforts of a running automation, and two or three other good runners for a large measure of their success. As evidenced by their victory over Roanoke, this squad will depend more on how closely it can group its first five, and especially in how high its other three men can finish than ever before.

At present the chief rivals of their success are time and weather. The weather has been anything but ideal in the past two weeks, and class schedules have limited the number of team work-outs, and by comparison to the other squads in the conference, the Hounds are in for a difficult season. From all reports the Towson Teachers are stronger this year, and judging by their 15-57 scalping of Roanoke, the Mounties are anything but pushovers. The burden of truth may be mainly with the vets, but the true story of the season, as against Roanoke, might well be told in the consistency of the team as a whole.

Intramurals

The intramural touch football league completed its second week of action with the Debts, Flores, the 1.5's, and the YoYos emerged victoriously. Connely, Zdenek, Heinbein contributed touchdowns, and Nosker two extra points, in the Debts win over the Sharks. The 1.5's smashed the Jets 19-0, as Donnellan, Blair, and O'Keefe highlighted the 1.5's scoring. Two Bill Kock passes to Caruso and Brookshank accounted for the two YoYo touchdowns in their 15-0 victory over the Dirty Dozen. In the final game the Flores overpowered the Hawks.

Tennis

Early results from Tennis intramurals show victories by Lew Albert and John Wark over Bill Mitchering and Bill Kolehepp respectively.

Junior Dick Lattanzi grabs a quick pass to score in last Wednesday's intramural action.

Wilson Bean lauds physical fitness.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

by Tom Kenney

Recently much attention has been given to the subject of physical fitness. Hundreds of officials in both national and local governmental agencies from President Kennedy on down have decried the physical condition of the American people and urged them on to efforts aimed at achieving physical well being.

There have been an infinite number of jokes made about the physical fitness campaign. However, when the laughing quiets down, any rational adult will admit that physical fitness is a good idea. The problem which usually arises for the ordinary person is that he has neither the time nor the facilities to attempt a fair fitness program even if he wanted to.

Students here at Loyola have no such lack of time or facilities. Every student has some breaks in his schedule in which he can make use of the pool or gym or athletic field. Thus, a regular, or at least an irregular, fitness program is within the reach of all Loyola men. Such a program is not a bad idea if for no other reasons that it will make the participant feel better and live longer.

Booters Down American For Second Triumph

Loyola's Soccer team scored three times in the last quarter to beat American University 4-1, and thus earn their second consecutive victory of the season. It was indeed a team victory as eighteen of Coach Reitz's players joined in outthrusting their Washington opponents. Denny Grabowski was once again the leading scorer as he booted in the last two scores, but Carl Manfre and reserve George Ordenez provided the two key goals. Backing up these scoring leaders were the other members of the offensive line, composed of captain Joe Kosiorek, Jack and Dennis Palmer, and Brian Copenhaver. Not to be overlooked, though, was the excellent job

Hoop Workouts Set To Start This Monday

Basketball practice for the 1962-63 season begins on Monday, October 15, at 3 P.M. At this point it is sufficient to state that returning letter-men, experience gained and overall improvement in individual players would indicate an improvement over last season's 10-9 won-lost record, which included a fine 9-3 log in the Mason-Dixon conference.

The highlight of the coming season is the second Loyola College Invitational Tournament which will be held on the nights of December 28-29. Last year, under the fine tutelage of Coach Nap Doherty in his first year at the reins, the hustling Greyhounds left Alsace De Bagnolet of France, Muhlenburg College and the University of Delaware in their wake as they swept their own tournament.

This year's entries are even more formidable. Leading the field is Ohio Wesleyan University, a perennial basketball power. While compiling one of the finest records in the nation last year (21-3), the Ohioans swept their own conference with 15 wins against a single loss.

Lafayette College of Easton, Pa., and the fast-breaking Rams of West Chester State College being impressive 18-6 and 14-7 records with them to round out the field of entries.

The fine caliber of these teams will make the year's tournament one of the finest in the East. An advance sell-out is forseen.

done by the defensive unit. Johnny Campbell, Mike Elliott, and Sam Amato were superlative, while Vince Petroniero, Harry Bregel, John Kircher, Bill Harbold, and goalie Paul Cashour played a fine game.

The team had many chances to score in the first half, but just could not manage to get one in until George Ordenez converted on a close bouncer in the second period. A.U. tied the score in the third period. Thus it remained 1-1 until the fourth period when Carl Manfre took a pass from Grabowski, and hit a hard shot off the A.U. goalie into the net. Grabowski then added insurance goals on two fine shots. The Hounds face three stiff contests within the next week. They travel to C.U. tomorrow and then are at home Tuesday against Hopkins and Thursday against Baltimore University.

Hound Natators Appear Strong

The Greyhound natators, conference champs for the past two years, can be expected to meet their season with what coach Klarner calls "a good strong team."

The Hounds' strength, however, will not go untried. They will compete with VMI, Westchester, Washington and Lee, and La Salle in the toughest schedule ever posted for a Loyola tank team. Two long road trips to Seton Hall, St. Peter's, Holy Cross in the north, and to VMI and Lynchburg in the south, are also scheduled.

The water-hounds are tops as usual in the distances with Marty Pilsh, Al Kubeluis, and Tom Jeffers, all gold or silver medal winners in the M-D tourney. Ken Freimuth, a perennial great, will hold down his breaststroke specialty with almost equal ability in the Individual Medley and Butterfly events. Sophomore Tippy Cronin will fill the first butterfly slot but like Freimuth needs support in the second position. Jim Burns and Joe Doyle, both of whom placed in the money in the M-D's, will return as backstrokers.

If the team's upperclass strength receives any support at all from the freshman class, there is no reason why Klarner's "good team" could not become a "best team."
